Proposals for a new minor in Classics: Classical Civilization and a new track in the Classics Major: Classical Archaeology
The Chair introduced Lowell Bowditch, Department Head and Professor of Classics, to present the proposals from the Classics Department. She explained that the proposed new minor in Classical Civilization was developed in response to students requesting a minor without a concentration in language (Greek or Latin).

Prof. Bowditch also introduced a proposal for a 5th track in the Classics major called Classical Archaeology. She pointed out there is already a Preparatory Program for Classical Archaeology in the UO Catalog. However, the department is responding to student demand for a major in the area of archaeology that it is re-designing the curriculum of the major to include a more rigorous study of the field in the Classical Archaeology track. The new concentration will replace the preparatory program.

Discussion
After Prof. Bowditch’s departure from the meeting, the Council discussed the two proposals from the Classics department.

UGC Recommendations for the Proposed for new minor:
1. There was concern about the lack of a required introductory course to the minor to provide a framework for the minor.
2. Members felt that the department needed to clarify and better define the rationale for the minor.
3. They also advised that there be a stated requirement of a minimum of 1 lower division Classics course and 1 upper division Classics course in the minor OR specifically require Classics 201 and 202 for the minor.
4. There also needs to be better clarified wording for language requirements in the minor.

The motion was made, moved, and seconded to endorse the proposed new minor in Classical Civilizations from the Department of Classics incorporating the recommendations made by the Undergraduate Council.
The motion passed unanimously.

UGC Recommendations for the Proposed new concentration in the Major:
1. The Council had some concern about adequate staffing for the new concentration.
2. Course numbering for the concentration needs to be clarified.
3. The department needs to coordinate with other departments to assure slots for students in the major or minor.

The motion was made, moved, and seconded to endorse the proposed new major concentration in Classical Archaeology from the Department of Classics incorporating the recommendations made by the Undergraduate Council.
The motion passed unanimously.

Proposal for a new minor in Korean from the CAS Department of East Asian Languages and Literatures
The Chair introduced Lucien Brown, Assistant Professor of Korean Linguistics in EALL and Dong Hoon Kim, Assistant Professor of Korean Film, Literature and Cultural Studies, EALL as the presenters of a proposal to create a new minor in Korean in EALL.

Lucien Brown explained that the proposed Korean minor is modeled on the minors in Chinese and in Japanese which are already offered by EALL. This minor will improve the department’s competitiveness for Title VI and other grants which are increasingly emphasizing language coverage in Chinese, Japanese, and Korean. The minor is directed toward students who need more study in the language. Currently, there is no major in Korean.

The motion was made, moved, and seconded to endorse the proposal by the CAS Department of East Asian Languages and Literatures to create a new minor in Korean.

The motion passed unanimously.

The next UGC meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, May 13, 2014 at 12:00 noon in the Collaboration Room of the Knight Library.
